

Get out of your head

Your inner critic is not a good business adviser. Decide from the outcome you want, not the feeling of the moment, and go talk to real people.

REMEMBER

- ◆ You would not accept from anyone else the way you speak to yourself.
- ◆ Feelings are real, and they are not instructions.
- ◆ Clarity comes from conversations and action, not from more time alone with your thoughts.

YOUR TURN

What my inner critic says about me and my business:

What I would say to a friend who told me that about themselves:

A decision I have been making from a feeling:

The outcome I want, and the decision that serves it:

Three real people I can talk to this week instead of thinking it over again:

THIS WEEK

Take the question you keep turning over and ask three customers about it instead.

Inspired by Mel Robbins, "How to Stop Screwing Yourself Over" (TEDx).