

Name what you really want

Goals built on what sounds acceptable do not move you. Name what you honestly want from your business, because the honest reason is the one that gets you up in the morning.

REMEMBER

- ◆ The goal you think you should have is rarely the one that drives you.
- ◆ No one else has to approve of what you want.
- ◆ A clear, honest want makes decisions faster.

YOUR TURN

The goals I say out loud for my business:

What I honestly want, if no one were listening:

Where those two lists differ:

One goal rewritten around what I really want:

THIS WEEK

Write what you honestly want from your business this year, in one sentence that would embarrass you a little to read aloud. Keep it private, and plan from it.

Inspired by Mel Robbins, "How to Stop Screwing Yourself Over" (TEDx).