

Say "yes, we can" to the right request

When a customer you love serving asks for something you do not offer yet, do not rush to say no. That request may be showing you your next offer.

REMEMBER

- ◆ Your best customers often see your next offer before you do.
- ◆ "We do not do that" protects your comfort. It can also close a door.
- ◆ Yes is for the right request from the right customer. It is not yes to everyone.

YOUR TURN

Things customers have asked me for that I do not offer:

Which of those came from my A customers?

Which one fits my mission and would I be glad to do again?

What I would need to learn, borrow or partner on to deliver it:

A small first version I could offer to the one customer who asked:

THIS WEEK

Go back to one request you turned down from a customer you love serving. Ask them to tell you more about what they needed.
