

You are not stuck with the business you have

A struggling business is not a life sentence. With an honest look and a targeted plan it can be rebuilt, and you can measure the change.

REMEMBER

- ◆ Where your business is today is a starting point, not a verdict.
- ◆ Improvement comes from a targeted plan, not from working harder at everything.
- ◆ Measure where you start, so you can see how far you have come.

YOUR TURN

The part of my business I have quietly given up on:

Where it stands today, honestly, with a number if I can:

What "healthy" would look like for this one area:

Three targeted changes that would move it:

When I will measure again:

THIS WEEK

Choose one struggling area. Write down where it stands today and the first targeted change you will make.
