

Different isn't wrong

Different does not make it wrong. It just makes it different. When your way is aligned with who you are, you are more likely to reach your own definition of success.

REMEMBER

- ◆ Success is yours to define. Borrowed definitions build misaligned businesses.
- ◆ Alignment is an advantage. You do your best work when the business fits you.
- ◆ Stay a learner. Seek out conversations that stretch how you think.

YOUR TURN

My own definition of success, in my own words:

Three things I do "because that is how it is done" in my industry:

For each: does it fit me and my clients, or am I copying?

Most people in my field do _____. I do _____ because _____:

THIS WEEK

Choose one thing to do your own way, and tell your clients why.
