

Who is my customer, really?

Your customer is not everybody. It is a very few, and those few are the ones who prove what you do.

REMEMBER

- ◆ When you speak to everyone, no one hears you.
- ◆ The results of your few best-fit clients are your strongest marketing.
- ◆ Being specific does not shrink your business. It makes you findable.

YOUR TURN

The clients who got the best results with me and were a joy to serve:

What they have in common (situation, what they wanted, how they think, what they were ready to do):

I serve ____ who want ____ and are ready to ____:

Where my website, offers or posts are still written for "everyone":

THIS WEEK

Write your one-sentence customer description and put it where you will see it every day.
