

"I don't know" is a professional answer

Rules differ from place to place and change often. Knowing when to stop guessing and ask a specialist is a mark of a professional.

REMEMBER

- ◆ Even lawyers answer most questions outside their field with "I don't know."
- ◆ A confident guess about a legal or tax matter can be very expensive.
- ◆ Build your list of specialists before you need them.

YOUR TURN

Legal, tax or compliance questions I have been guessing at:

Advice I have given clients that is outside my expertise:

The specialists I have (attorney, accountant, insurance, HR):

The ones I am missing:

The words I will use when a client asks something outside my field:

THIS WEEK

Pick the one question you have been guessing at for the longest and book time with the right professional to answer it.

Inspired by Adam Lange, "Think Like a Lawyer" (TEDx). General education, not legal advice.