

Profit follows purpose

Purpose and profit are not a trade-off. A business that truly serves its purpose is the one that earns lasting profit.

REMEMBER

- ◆ You do not have to choose between doing good and doing well.
- ◆ Not every good decision can be justified on a spreadsheet beforehand.
- ◆ Purpose is the road. Profit is where it leads.

YOUR TURN

The purpose of my business, beyond making money:

A decision where purpose and profit seemed to pull apart:

What I chose, and what happened over time:

Something I do because it is right, even though I cannot prove it pays:

One decision in front of me now, seen through my purpose:

THIS WEEK

Write your purpose in one sentence and test one current decision against it.

Inspired by Alex Edmans, "The Social Responsibility of Business" (TEDx).