

When you get it wrong, own it

Every business makes mistakes. What clients remember is what you did next: admit it, tell the whole story and make it right.

REMEMBER

- ◆ A prompt, complete apology builds more trust than never having slipped.
- ◆ Do not explain it away. Say what happened and what you are doing about it.
- ◆ Make it right before you are asked.

YOUR TURN

A mistake I made with a client that I have not fully addressed:

What happened, stated plainly, without excuses:

What it cost them:

What I will do to make it right:

What I will change so it does not happen again:

THIS WEEK

Contact one client you owe an apology to. Say what happened, say you are sorry, and tell them what you have done to make it right.
